

U.S. government obligations information

Important tax information for 2013

This tax update contains information to help you properly report your state and local tax liability on income distributions you received from your mutual fund investments in 2013.

Below you'll find a list of Vanguard funds that earned a portion of their investment income from obligations of the U.S. government. Direct U.S. government obligations and obligations of certain U.S. government agencies are generally exempt from taxation in most states.<sup>1</sup> To the right of each fund name, you'll find columns listing:

- The percentage of the fund's total income derived from U.S. government obligations in 2013 (Column 1).
- The percentage of the fund's assets invested in U.S. government obligations as of December 31, 2013 (Column 2).

Check with your state or local tax office or with your tax advisor to determine whether your state allows you to exclude some or all of the income you earn from mutual funds that invest in U.S. government obligations. If your state allows an exclusion, refer to Column 1, "Percentage of income from U.S. government obligations," for the percentage of income that may be excluded for each fund in which you're invested.<sup>2</sup>

In addition, certain states and municipalities require residents to pay intangible or personal property tax. If you're required to pay either of these taxes, refer to Column 2, "Percentage of assets invested in U.S. government obligations as of December 31, 2013," for the percentage that may be excluded from these taxes for each fund in which you're invested.
